Pierce Asked To Quit

CHARLESTON -- The R-1 school board Wednesday voted to ask Supt. W. R. Pierce Jr., to resign effective June 30. The vote was four to two.

Voting for his resignation were Fred Moxley, Bob Jackson, James Moreton and Bob DeLaney. Voting against it were Mrs. Clifton Banta, president, and Harry Sutherland.

"With the situation we have on the board, it would be very difficult for him (Pierce) to be effective," DeLaney said. "These six people were elected to keep in mind the educational welfare of this district."

Pierce served as Charleston high school principal from 1959 to 1965. He was appointed superintendent last year.

On Sept. 9 he asked the board to release him because he had an opportunity to accept a job as director of research in the state department of education, a new division.

The board in a tie vote at that time in effect voted against his release. He had asked for his release at the end of the midterm Dec. 31.

Little Interest in Friday's Election

ST. LOUIS (AP) -- A special election that has aroused little public interest will be held in crisp midwinter weather in Missouri Friday.

The big issue is legislative redistricting -- the second time around on this problem. The voting is expected to be exceptionally light.

The weatherman said Friday would bring "good voting weather." There is no precipitation in the forecast and temperatures are expected to range in the 30s and 40s.

The fact the election is being held on a Friday instead of Tuesday as usual is not expected to make much difference in the turnout.

Secy. of State James C. Kirkpatrick thinks only about 250,000 of the state's 2,800,000 eligible voters will bother to ballot on the three statewide constitutional issues. They are:

No. 1 -- To allow Jackson and St. Louis counties to set up pension plans for their employees immediately. Other cities and counties would have to wait for legislative authorization.

No. 2 -- To make the basic school tax $1.25 without a popular vote. It's 89 cents now in the City of St. Louis and $1 in other city and town districts. The maximum that could be passed by a simple majority vote would increase from $3 to $3.75. After that a two-thirds vote would be required.

Three persons were injured in traffic accidents yesterday.

Four were hurt in a single car crash at 11:30 p.m. one and one-half miles west of Scott City on county highway M. The driver, Bobby Holdaway, 21, Blytheville, Ark., was in critical condition from a skull fracture.

He was driving a speeding 1962 Chevrolet when the car skidded, left wet pavement and overturned.

Injured were three passengers, Gerald Simpson, 18, Chaffee, bruises; Sharon Glueck, 16, Chaffee, back injury, and Sharon Dunney, 19, Chaffee, back injury and cuts. All were taken to St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Four persons were injured at 5:30 p.m. on a business highway route in Steele. Three of them were taken to the Peninsular County Memorial Hospital in Haysi, and the fourth to a Steele physician.

Friday will be mostly sunny with highs mostly in the 40s, with the higher readings in the west central section.

The lows tonight will be 10 to 15 in the northeast; 15 to 22 in the south and in the 20s in the northwest.

Two Admit Stealing Cars

Jewell Marshal, 19, and Eddie Jackson, 18, both of Sikeston, have admitted stealing two Chevrolets from the Semo Motor Company used car lot Tuesday night according to Police Lt. James E. "Bud" Stone.

The Illinois state highway patrol authorities said that the two were pulled out of a 1959 Chevrolet after a wreck in Williamson County, Ill., Wednesday morning.

They waived extradition, were picked up by Stone and Scott County Deputy Sheriff Eddie Michael yesterday and brought back to Sikeston, where they are being held on charges of car theft.

The 1957 Chevrolet was found abandoned at Charleston. Neither driver was hurt.

Passengers in the Grindstaff car went to the hospital -- Isaac Grindstaff, cut and bruised, Aleen Grindstaff, 41, Steele, bruised; Phyllis Kennedy, 18, Steele, a neck injury.

Carl Parker, 30, Charleston, a passenger in a 1965 Chevrolet, driven by Lester Cain, Bertrand, was taken to the Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston following an accident at 9:30 p.m. on highway 77, four miles west of Charleston.

At 4:15 p.m. on highway 91 in Morley, a 1965 Volkswagen, driven by Mark Todd, 16, Vanbuser, went out of control as he rounded a curve, and struck a 1953 Chevrolet, driven by Bobby Abernathy, 33, Morley. Neither driver was hurt.

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Buried deep in President Johnson's State of the Union message is a 10-word proposal to North Viet Nam to start scaling down the war in Southeast Asia without negotiations or even an agreed ceasefire.

"We will respond," he said, playing it low-key, "if others reduce their use of force."

Some of the President's closest advisers think that is, in fact, the way the war may begin to end -- not with a great conference or a formal truce but with a slow dwindling of hostilities.

In his address to Congress Wednesday night, the President for the first time put the full weight of his own authority behind this alternative with a flat commitment to begin de-escalating the conflict if and when the Communists are ready.

In recent days dispatches from Viet Nam have indicated some decline in Viet Cong offensive activity. Administration officials said they had no way of judging whether this is significant. It could have been, however, a factor in Johnson's decision to declare at this time his readiness to reduce the fighting through parallel actions by both sides.

Johnson put forth the proposition without detracting in any way from his major effort, now three weeks old, to get the Communists to agree to a conference and a cease-fire. But in this field he had no significant new concessions to offer, though two points he made may be read by Communist leaders in Hanoi with special interest.

He declared the United States is ready to discuss and consider "the views of any group," specifically including a four-point peace program advanced by Hanoi.

The reference to "any group" was broad enough to include the National Liberation Front, which is the political arm of the Viet Cong guerrillas fighting in South Viet Nam. Participation of the Front in a peace conference has been one of Hanoi's objectives. Johnson himself had said previously this issue would be resolved.

The other point of possible special interest to Hanoi was a promise by Johnson "to withdraw our soldiers once South Viet Nam is securely guaranteed the right to shape its own future."

This commitment is two-edged: The troops will be withdrawn someday but not before South Viet Nam is secure from Communist conquest.

If the Communists are insisting -- in current secret diplomatic -- on U.S. withdrawal from negotiations.

Exactly where the peace offensive stands was left a mystery though Johnson reviewed it at length. He avoided assessing progress and simply said that so far there has been no response from Hanoi "to prove either success or failure."

In his careful choice of words the implication was strong that there has been some inconclusive response from Hanoi through other governments.

Much of Johnson's report on the Southeast Asian conflict appeared to be directed to Hanoi as well as to the Congress from which he asked new billions of dollars to carry on the conflict as he may judge necessary.

His message to Hanoi was a combination of peace appeal and war warning, designed to encourage North Viet Nam to break away from Red China. In an apparent reference to Red China he said "there may be some who do not want peace" but welcome continuing conflict in Viet Nam because it suits their own ambitions.

But others, he said in words that seemed written for North Viet Nam, must now realize that the only choice they have is "between peace and the ravages of a conflict from which they can only lose."

Chafetz suggested that "practice drinking" be initiated at a very early age, in elementary school, and continue through college. He said that the young-est children should be given very weak drinks at first, perhaps sherry in water, with the alcoholic contents gradually increased for the older students.

Chafetz, an assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at Harvard, is also director of the Alcohol and Psychiatric Service of Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston.

He told the conference that the home is not the place to teach youngsters how to hold their liquor because many parents have guilt feelings about their own drinking. In school, he said, the young people could be instructed on the hazards of improper use of alcohol.

Chafetz contended that the drinking would not encourage heavy consumption but would reduce it because there would be fewer heavy drinkers.

Included in the group of mostly women is Mrs. Bessie Cleveland Sweeney, 83, of Washington. Only a handful of women have ever set foot on Antarc-

Service Being Restored by Noon Today

NEW YORK (AP) as this city's unprecedented, multimillion-dollar subway and bus strike ended shortly before dawn today minutes after entering its 13th day. Restoration of normal service was promised by noon.

For 3.5 million New York workers there still remained the problem of getting to their jobs. The monumental traffic crush associated with the strike built up even as the dispute was resolved.

Before the Transit Authority set the noon hour for resumption of full service of its 6,500-subway car and 4,000-bus system, Mayor John V. Lindsay had said he did not expect it before "late tonight or early Friday."

The striking AFL-CIO unions -- the Transport Workers Union and the Amalgamated Transit Union -- agreed to mediators' settlement terms shortly before 6:30 a.m.

By 8 a.m., the first segment of the 237-mile-long subway system was carrying its first paying passengers since New Year's Day. A half-hour later the Transit Authority announced that 3,200 buses were in operation.

Although describing it as "fruitless to get into the numbers game," Lindsay evaluated the new two-year labor contract for 34,400 workers at $52 million. But a TWU lawyer said it "is for $69,980 to the penny."

The Transit Authority estimated the unions' original demands at $680 million. The demands were reduced to $216 million before the 5 a.m. Jan. 1 strike and scaled down again to be reported $100 million during negotiations.

In late morning, Supreme Court Justice Abraham N. Geller signed an order freeing all union chief Michael J. Quill and eight other labor leaders from jail sentences he imposed for contempt. At the same time he dismissed a proceeding which sought $324,000-a-day union fines for ignoring an injunction forbidding the strike.

Quill, who collapsed two hours after being jailed, remained in Bellevue Hospital, but his colleagues walked out of civil jail shortly after the judge signed his order.

Douglas L. MacMahon, acting head of the union, commented:

"We are happy at the result, we feel we have achieved a large measure of justice in our demands. We are very, very glad to go back to rendering the services we have in the past."

MacMahon said he figured the two-year contract package at $70 million. One source close to the negotiations, however, said the figure was about $52 million.

Mayor John V. Lindsay, a Republican who took office the day the 34,000 bus and subway employees walked off the job, made no immediate statement after the strike's settlement.

MacMahon said the Transit Authority had agreed that there would be "no reprisals" against the strikers. It also agreed to withdraw its suit for $322,000 a day in damages against the unions, he said.

Quill and the other union leaders were arrested Jan. 4 when they refused to heed a state court injunction prohibiting the strike. Quill collapsed two hours after his arrest and has been confined at Bellevue Hospital.

The subway workers would receive a four percent increase in salaries retroactive to Jan. 1, the day they walked out. Another four percent increase would be effective Jan. 1, 1967, and a seven percent increase would come on July 1, 1967.

The panel recommended that the hourly wages of motormen, for instance, be raised from $3.46 to $4 over the life of

The election is expected to be close with both sides predicting victory.

If the voters reject the plan -- as they did the first redistricting proposal last Aug. 17 -- the reapportionment job would revert to the federal court which found in December, 1964, that both houses of the legislature were malapportioned.

Jewell, who also served as a justice of peace, owned and operated the Trading Store at 417 South Main St. He lived at 117 William Street.

A veteran of army service in two World Wars, Jewell served several terms as constable between the two conflicts. He became police judge April 7, 1936 and was given leave Sept. 8, 1942 to enter the service. His leave expired in April of 1944. Jewell did not seek re-election.

In World War I he was cited for being wounded in action. He was a member of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Missouri Peace Officers Association and the Odd Fellows Lodge.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Kathryn Johnson, 106 William; and one nephew, Jack Johnson of Brighton, Ill.

The body is at the Welsh Funeral Home. Services will be Saturday at 10 a.m. in the Welsh chapel. Burial will be in Memorial Park cemetery.

Driving while intoxicated brought a fine of $120 and six months jail sentence to Jessie Farrell Shipp, Judge Erie Wright placed Shipp on probation for six months and suspended his driver's license for one year. Jimmy Denson and Bob Wren were fined $16 and $25 respectively for disturbing the peace. Denson was fined $30 for interfering with an arresting officer.

Charges of exceeding legal speed limits topped all misdemeanors. Those fined were: Nathaniel Johnson and Hershel Wayne Hicks, $30 each; James Karl Woodward, $20 each; Jewell Brooks Lovell, $15, and Charles Lewis, $40.

Careless and imprudent driving brought fines to four: Ben J. Harvey Arthur, $35; James Thomas Koebeck, $25; Lente Burke Dodson, $35, and Frank Carl Kinnaman, $35.

Democrats and Republicans alike applauded the determination he expressed. On Wednesday night in his State of the Union message to press for peace although "we have received no response to prove either success or failure" on the current American peace offensive.

While Democrats applauded his declaration that he would not permit the war to sidetrack his "Great Society" programs, Republicans attacked many of his domestic program proposals and his assertion that the budget deficit for the next fiscal year would be held to $1.8 billion.

On the domestic front, the President's sweeping proposals ranged from plans to combat crime in the streets to establishment of a Cabinet-level department of transportation. He asked for laws to guarantee equality for Negroes in the courts and in housing and a constitutional amendment which would extend the two-year terms of House members to four years.

Some Democrats agreed. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., ordinarily a staunch administration supporter, questioned whether defense spending could be held to Johnson's estimate of $58.3 billion.

There was criticism from both parties -- especially a group of members of the Senate Finance Committee -- for Johnson's proposal that excise taxes on automobiles and telephone calls be reduced Jan. 1 -- be restored to meet increased military spending.

"Personally I would rather raise taxes on liquor and tobacco than make the changes the President suggests," said Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., then Finance Committee chairman.

LEAVE IT TO THE COURT?

Some of the scattered opposition to Proposition No. 3, on Missouri House redistricting, now argues that it would be better to let a federal court accomplish this task. Who would gain by that?

Nobody can be certain what the court would do. It might order an at-large election of State Representatives. In that case some of the rural and Republican opponents of Proposition No. 3 would surely lose House representation in the tide of urban votes.

No, the opponents argue, the court would not do that; it would reapportion the House itself. They cannot be sure. If the court did reapportion, it would probably do a good job -- and that means it would save no seats for rural and minority groups that do not deserve them.

Even so, the opponents contend, it would be better to rely on the court than on a commission controlled by a partisan Governor. Controlled how? Under Proposition No. 3 the Governor could only appoint a redistricting commission from names proposed by ten Republican and ten Democratic district committees. In these circumstances a Governor would have trouble trying to control his own party's choices, much less those of the opposition party.

Proposition No. 3 offers a procedure similar to that long and satisfactorily employed for the State Senate. The sudden criticism of it seems partly to be a hangover from efforts of outstate House leaders to retain control over their seats. As the Missouri League of Women Voters indicates, in supporting the Proposition, reapportionment is no place for legislative self-interest, or for partisanship.

Not even the opponents would gain anything by letting the court tackle House apportionment. Missouri would lose an opportunity to settle the problem constitutionally, once and for all. The state cannot expect the courts to assume the responsibility of drawing legislative districts every ten years. Indeed, the court expressly recognized that this was the state's responsibility; the court will act only if the state does not.

Nobody has proposed nearly as sound an answer to Missouri's responsibility as Proposition No. 3. It offers a fair, tested and final answer. Missouri voters should accept it at the polls on Friday, and not expect the court to do what they can do for themselves.

THE BACK OF THE POVERTY FRONT

At the peak of depression back in the '30s, mortgage foreclosures hit an annual total of two hundred and fifty thousand. During the first two quarters of 1965 FHA mortgage foreclosures have been running at the rate of thirty thousand each quarter or an annual rate of a hundred and twenty thousand.

It can be safely assumed that each such foreclosure represents a shattered dream on the part of the purchasers who for one reason or another simply could not keep up the payments on their homes.

It is also safe to assume that each such foreclosure represented an addition to the welfare load in the county or state, particularly since it is the policy of the Federal Housing Administration to proceed with foreclosure only as a last resort.

No small part of the problem of financial self-sufficiency for every individual in every family in the lower income brackets is the punishing burden of the cost of government. If the financial wheels of the small family-sized business are to turn at all, there must first be overcome the dead weight of carrying along the spendthrift and far too expensive conglomeration of governmental agencies and their reports. Some of these have their own taxing authority. Those without it seem to easily persuade legislative bodies to expand the burden on the taxpayer. Along with their increasing cut out of every paycheck, the many agencies of government produce their own shower of official forms which must be filled out or subject to summons, etc.

The average small person struggling to survive and attempting to attend to his own business finds that he must first take care of everybody else and that the agencies of government have made his business their business.

If he fails, he is just another statistic to government--but not to those who depend on him for a paycheck along with his own family.

This is the back side of the property front that the politicians and bureaucrats don't like to talk about.

In the days of the Byzantine Empire only the emperor was allowed to wear red shoes.

Sikeston residents will watch with interest the effort of Ronald Reagan, the actor-turned-politician, to become governor of California.

Reagan, who originally came from a small Illinois community and who has deep roots in the middle west, came to this community a year ago to address a Chamber of Commerce banquet.

He delivered a speech that he has given many times since he achieved nationwide fame with it during the presidential campaign of Republican Barry Goldwater. It basically is a speech upholding the free enterprise system against the socialistic encroachments.

Reagan polishes the speech for each occasion and makes small changes but the speech is basically the same.

The actor is an effective speaker and there are few men in this country in their middle fifties who present such a youthful, handsome appearance.

These assets should help him win the Republican nomination for governor and they may be decisive in winning the election. A Republican has to offer something extra. Reagan has plenty of it.

Gov. Pat Brown, the Democratic governor who is expected to be his opponent, has had his troubles--not the least of which were the Watts riots in Los Angeles.

Of course, the election of Actor George Murphy as United States senator of California is furnishing inspiration for the Reagan campaign.

Actors have the advantage of being known to millions of people. Reagan is a well known moving picture actor and television personality in California. He is using television heavily in his bid for votes, forsaking the usual soap box, beat-the-bushes and hand shaking campaign tour.

Reagan once was a Democrat. He left the party in 1960 when he helped Vice President Richard M. Nixon in his unsuccessful attempt to defeat the late President John F. Kennedy.

In Sikeston Reagan denied that he had left the Democratic fold. "The party left me," he said.

The difference between a Democrat and Republican is somewhat blurred everywhere in the country but none more than in California. It was once possible for members of both major parties to run on both party tickets there. This has been changed.

It is sometimes difficult to remember whether Chief Justice Earl Warren of the United States supreme court is a Republican or Democrat. He is a Republican but the liberal segment of both the Democratic and Republican parties in California elected him to the governorship of that state.

Party labels don't mean much in the nation's most populous state.

Reagan offers the voters a well known face, an engaging personality and his campaign is described as being particularly well financed--not a minor factor in this electronic campaign age.

He is a political novice but that isn't any particular handicap. Even those experienced in politics can be made to look foolish at times and Governor Brown is no exception.

Over 1.3 million carlots of fresh fruits, vegetables and peanuts were examined for quality, condition, or both during 1965.

Colonel E. L. (Mike) Hockaday, Superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol, announced today that new cars bought by the Patrol will have factory installed air conditioning provided the cost is within the Patrol's present appropriation.

The Colonel said that Captain H. H. Schaperkotter, head of the Patrol's Division of Motor Equipment, conducted a survey of the dealers who regularly bid on the patrol cars to determine the original cost of air conditioning and the trade-in value when the vehicles are replaced. The cost of adding air conditioning to the new cars and the cost of operation will be between one-fourth and one-half cent per mile. One state has actually saved money on the replacement of vehicles equipped with air conditioning.

Colonel Hockaday pointed out that the money for equipping the new cars will be available from savings produced by more economical fleet management.

The Colonel said that purchases of air conditioning units will be made only at such times as the Patrol is able to do so out of its allotted funds.

He added, "We understand that other state law enforcement agencies in the country have installed air conditioning equipment in their patrol cars. They have found that this has increased the quality of work of their men.

LEAVE IT TO THE COURT?

Some of the scattered opposition to Proposition No. 3, on Missouri House redistricting, now argues that it would be better to let a federal court accomplish this task. Who would gain by that?

Nobody can be certain what the court would do. It might order an at-large election of State Representatives. In that case some of the rural and Republican opponents of Proposition No. 3 would surely lose House representation in the tide of urban votes.

No, the opponents argue, the court would not do that; it would reapportion the House itself. They cannot be sure. If the court did reapportion, it would probably do a good job -- and that means it would save no seats for rural and minority groups that do not deserve them.

Even so, the opponents contend, it would be better to rely on the court than on a commission controlled by a partisan Governor. Controlled how? Under Proposition No. 3 the Governor could only appoint a redistricting commission from names proposed by ten Republican and ten Democratic district committees. In these circumstances a Governor would have trouble trying to control his own party's choices, much less those of the opposition party.

Proposition No. 3 offers a procedure similar to that long and satisfactorily employed for the State Senate. The sudden criticism of it seems partly to be a hangover from efforts of outstate House leaders to retain control over their seats. As the Missouri League of Women Voters indicates, in supporting the Proposition, reapportionment is no place for legislative self-interest, or for partisanship.

Not even the opponents would gain anything by letting the court tackle House apportionment. Missouri would lose an opportunity to settle the problem constitutionally, once and for all. The state cannot expect the courts to assume the responsibility of drawing legislative districts every ten years. Indeed, the court expressly recognized that this was the state's responsibility; the court will act only if the state does not.

Nobody has proposed nearly as sound an answer to Missouri's responsibility as Proposition No. 3. It offers a fair, tested and final answer. Missouri voters should accept it at the polls on Friday, and not expect the court to do what they can do for themselves.

GRAMMAR LESSON

Don't scuttle through the crawl space looking for your old English grammar -- this widely used grammatical form isn't in it.

Call it the "preparatory accusative case."

Example from the boss: "Jones, YOU threw away the report on the meeting, didn't you?"

This puts the burden of proof

"GREAT society!!!"

Commercial Appeal

on Jones and should the report never turn up, Jones has had it. Should some other hapless wretch prove to be the culprit, Jones still is tarred with implied complicity.

The accuser always comes out spotless, as in the wife's use of the "preparatory accusative":

"You aren't eating -- you hate my cooking!"

Teacher: What letter comes after A?

Five-year-old: All of them.

An old-fashioned girl who believes in safety first is the one who takes her cigarette out of her mouth before pulling her nightgown over her head.

Two and a half million people have experienced an Arab boycott of their products, a refusal to let their ships pass through the Suez Canal, plus attempts to block their irrigation projects, flood their limited territory with hostile refugees, isolate them in the United Nations, bar them from other international organizations and, in brief, banish Israel from contacts with the world.

Those two and a half million modern history has had such odds lined up against it as Israel.

It is surrounded, directly or indirectly, by 13 Arab nations with a population of 100 million people holding 4 million square miles of territory. Israel has only 8,000 miles of territory, in which live only 2,500,000 people. At one point Israel is only 7 miles wide.

On the other side of the dust curtain, President Bourguiba of Tunisia has bolted the rigid anti-Israel stand of Egypt's Nasser and said that Israel offers opportunities for peaceful coexistence with the Arab world.

At any rate, there is no question that Mike Quill was determined to go to jail from the very start, and to take his colleagues with him.

There is also no question that nobody could get him and his transit leaders out of jail. They liked it there and wanted to stay.

Quill came in with demands which were astronomical and which the city of New York couldn't possibly meet. It is true that Mike faced some dissatisfaction among his workers. His motormen felt that they were underpaid compared with motormen on the Hudson and Manhattan. His bus drivers felt they were paid less than the drivers of refuse trucks in Manhattan. And electrical workers who worked at the city power house and other private firms who operated under a higher wage contract negotiated by Harry Van Arsdale of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. Van Arsdale, incidentally, held up the electrical industry of New York for the highest wages in history, whereby some of his men get around $600 a week.

SECOND-CLASS CITIZENS

Meanwhile, Israel has a great opportunity to make the Arabs inside its own boundaries a model of Jewish-Moslem cooperation. There are 210,000 Arabs living inside Israel; most of them are still under military rule. A group of prominent Jewish and Arab professors and intellectuals have organized "The Jewish-Arab committee for the Adoption of Military Government," but despite their efforts, the Knesset voted, in February, 1963, 57 to 56, to continue military rule.

The probable answer is: Given enough aid by American Jews, plus modern missiles from France to offset the German scientist-made missiles in Egypt, Israel can survive. However, no one wants to live under such odds.

The real long-range solution for the Near East is peaceful cooperation between Israel and its Arab neighbors. Israel's scientists, doctors, and economists have much to offer the Arabs in the way of health, harnessing the sun's rays, desalination of water, eradication of flies and mosquitoes, joint irrigation, use of electric power, and industrial know-how. Nevertheless, the dust curtain between the two areas has long remained more opaque and impenetrable than the one-time iron curtain between East and West.

CRACKS IN CURTAIN

A few encouraging cracks, however, are beginning to show in the dust curtain.

One was the election to the Israeli Knesset last November of Yuri Avner, editor of "This World," who ran on a ticket of cooperation with the Arabs. He had maintained that the Israeli government was unfair to the Arab population inside Israel and must be more conciliatory toward the Arab population outside Israel.

Avner, a Jew, pounded on this theme so hard that the Eshkol government cracked down on him with the severest libel law in modern times. It removed truth as a defense against libel and since Avner was publishing a weekly paper, set up an entirely different set of laws for weeklies as against dailies.

When it came to libel by weekly papers, not only the editor and publisher but the printers, the newsboys, and the newsstand vendors were held subject to criminal libel, with a penalty of one year in prison if convicted.

And all this time they were saying their release would be a contribution towards shortening the dispute.

And all this time the city was losing $100 million a day.

All this time the world was being told that the biggest snag to settlement was the release of the prisoners.

So Avner, a Jew, pounded on this theme so hard that the Eshkol government cracked down on him with the severest libel law in modern times. It removed truth as a defense against libel and since Avner was publishing a weekly paper, set up an entirely different set of laws for weeklies as against dailies.

When it came to libel by weekly papers, not only the editor and publisher but the printers, the newsboys, and the newsstand vendors were held subject to criminal libel, with a penalty of one year in prison if convicted.

So Avner decided to run for the Knesset, where he would have immunity from libel. He won. Furthermore, he won by a commanding margin, almost enough to elect two Knesset members instead of one.

Woman's Club Has Regular Meeting Tuesday

The Woman's Club held its regular meeting Tuesday in the Public Library. The program was under the direction of Mrs. Fred Stewart, local Home Life Department chairman. The title of the program was "Food Can Be Fun." Discussion started with the modern food and method of shopping in the supermarkets and went to the 50 years ago style and quotes were given from the old cook books of that era and some of the recipes were read.

Mrs. E. J. Nienstedt, program chairman, introduced the Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Spencer, who furnished special music. Rev. Spencer sang "Blue Sky," "Hello Young Lovers" and "I Believe," accompanied by Mrs. Spencer on the piano.

Mrs. Thatcher Scism, club president, presided over the business meeting.

Mrs. W. C. Winstead led the members in reading the club collect.

Mrs. J. W. Foley, corresponding secretary, read a letter from the Business and Professional Women's Club announcing that they will once again sponsor the Woman of the Year Banquet.

A note from a former member, Mrs. Ralph Williams of Cape Girardeau, was enjoyed.

Mrs. Council Is Hostess To Class Meeting

The Kings Daughters Class of the First Baptist Church met at 2 p.m. Monday at the home of Mrs. Ethel Council with 11 members and one visitor, Miss Lillie Travelstead, present.

Mrs. E. K. Freeman, president, was in charge of the meeting. Mrs. Laura Pratt gave the opening prayer. The subject of the devotional given by Mrs. Gerda Harrison was "Forgiveness and Kindness" from Isaiah 1:18, 55 and 57 and Jeremiah 31:3. Mrs. Thomas Mathis gave the secretary's report. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Wade Moore.

These reports were accepted by members and group captains reported.

Miss Council dismissed the meeting with prayer. Refreshments of coffee, soft drinks and cookies were served.

The next meeting will be at 2 p.m. Monday, Feb. 14, at the home of Mrs. Tiscia Hitchcock.

USE THE DAILY SIKESTON STANDARD CLASSIFIED ADS

Mrs. Scism read the scope of the club's activities of last year to be used in The Daily Standard's Progress Edition. Mrs. William Proffer, ways and means chairman, announced the club would sponsor a benefit card party in March—the only money-making project the club has for their year's budget.

Mrs. E. F. Weidemann, chairman of resolutions and revisions, announced some changes in the club's by-laws. It was voted to send 21 cents per member to "The Congressional Medal of Honor Grove."

This is a memorial to honor forever and keep alive the records of men who have been awarded the nation's highest military honor. The honor grove will be at Freedom's Foundation in Valley Forge, Penn. The General Federation of Women's Club during their Diamond Jubilee Year will provide for the clearing and landscaping of the 52-acre area and for the construction of the central building for this facility.

Mrs. Ed Swan introduced a guest, Mrs. Forrest Revel, formerly of St. Louis now living in Sikeston.

Exports Cause Shortage Of Foods In U. S.

BY SALLY RYAN

NEW YORK AP -- The world produced more food than ever in 1965, but it couldn't keep up with the baby boom.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reported world food production was up 1 1/2 per cent, but the population increased 2 per cent.

Coffee production was up 51 per cent, but potato production was down 7 per cent, sugar 3 per cent and apples and pears 9 per cent. The rice crop was about the same as the big 1964 total, and wheat output was down slightly.

The booming demand from Asia and South America in particular lifted U. S. rice exports to a record, and raised the threat of tight supplies at home. Growers in Arkansas, Mississippi, Missouri, Texas and California produced 3.5 million tons of rice last year, a record. Usually South Viet Nam exports 300,000 to 400,000 tons of rice, but with the war, now it is importing rice -- much of it from the United States.

The United States is feeding more of the world.

India, struck by severe drought, will receive 1.5 million tons of food grains this winter. Chickens have been flown to India, hard-hit by storms.

More than half of the wheat, soybeans, dried peas and milled rice produced in the United States end up abroad.

At home, prices of canned corn are inching up, but canned pineapple is plentiful, and so is pineapple juice.

Prices of frozen orange juice concentrate have dropped with the big crop.

Couple Says Vows Dec. 21

Gage-Collins Engagement Is Announced

Sharon Hunott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Thrower, and John Wayne Newman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Newman, were married Dec. 21 at the Tanner Street Church of God. The Rev. Oral Withrow officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a navy blue wool suit trimmed with red suede and was given in marriage by her father. She wore navy shoes and a corsage of red roses.

Marilyn Bennett and Joe Newman, brother of the groom, were the couple's attendants. The maid of honor wore a pink wool dress and a white carnation corsage.

Mrs. Melford Livingston, aunt of the bride, played the organ.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the church basement. Punch and a three-tiered cake were served by Mrs. Donna Gates and Miss Sherria Brown.

After an undisclosed wedding trip, the couple are now making their home in Jacksonville, Fla., where Mr. Newman is serving in the U. S. Navy.

Those attending the wedding and reception included Kris Wolfender, Phyllis Newman, Ruth Ann Templeton, Mrs. Henry Ruhl, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Allen and Sandy, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eaton and Tommy and Sandra, Mr. and Mrs. Sarge Wood, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Thrower, parents of the bride; and Mrs. Beulah Newman, mother of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tedley, Lee Hodges, Jr., LaVonne McConnell, Barbara Tau, Mr. and Mrs. Dub Cline, Mrs. Reese Bennett, Mrs. Wilma Cullins, Marshall Cullins, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Keller, Mrs. Dewey Ramsey, Joe Crain, Mr. and Mrs. W. 3. If you are concerned about going over the boy's budget, ask him for a suggestion. Then order the same thing.

4. Some boys are not accustomed to opening doors for girls. If you just stand there they will know (eventually) it is expected, and they will learn that it is the thing to do.

5. Don't be afraid to say no to a good night kiss -- whether it's the first date or the 10th date. A kiss should not be payment for an evening's entertainment. Kiss a boy only when you feel genuinely fond of him, and when you know he feels the same way about you.

Dear Ann Landers: I have no problem because I have solved it. Perhaps my letter will help other unmarried, retired women who live alone.

After 40 years in the classroom I suddenly found myself faced with the challenge: "How to be happy though unemployed."

I am blessed with excellent health and have an adequate, though unimpressive, income. The feeling of uselessness was closing in on me. Then I discovered the answer. I said to myself:

1. Should I be ready when the boy comes to the door or should I linger in my room, so I won't appear too anxious?

2. Should we stay a while and talk to my parents or should we go right on?

3. If we go to a restaurant after the show should I let the boy order first so I don't go over his budget?

4. If he doesn't open the door for me should I just stand there until he does?

5. I have heard it is wrong to let a fellow kiss you on a first date. If he tries, how do I stop him without getting into a fight? I don't want my first date to be my last. Thank you.

Dear Dubious: I don't think your questions are stupid. I think they are sensible. Here are my answers:

1. Be ready when the boy arrives. The girl who keeps her date waiting is inconsiderate.

2. Don't rush the boy out of the house or he may think you are ashamed of your parents.

The annual drive for clothing is now in progress. Some of the clothing will be used in the local school and the rest will be sent to the Appalachian area.

It was suggested that the group explore the possibility of having a Christmas party for senior citizens in December of 1966.

Mrs. Beulah Peterson and Mrs. Floy Gruen are to contact the persons in charge of such an organization in Morehouse and Lumbour to find out how it was organized in each place.

The highlight of the evening came when Mrs. Cude presented a class of first graders as she showed the latest methods in teaching phonics -- using a record to accompany a book. Her class of demonstrators were Debbie Nichols, Mary Chaney, Terry Townsend, Ronald Worthy, Tammy Lowery, Greg Duncan, Sheila Campbell, Kim Vandiver and Donna Garrett. The attendance banner was won by the first grade.

Some bills were presented which the P. T. A. did not approve. The rule of the organization is that any P. T. A. member who buys anything anywhere is to pay the bill and then present it to the P. T. A.

ANN LANDERS Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 14-year-old girl who is looking forward to her first date. It won't be until next year but I want to be ready. These questions might seem stupid to girls who are already dating, but they are a matter of life and death to me and I don't know where to get the answers.

1. Should I be ready when the boy comes to the door or should I linger in my room, so I won't appear too anxious?

2. Should we stay a while and talk to my parents or should we go right on?

3. If we go to a restaurant after the show should I let the boy order first so I don't go over his budget?

4. If he doesn't open the door for me should I just stand there until he does?

5. I have heard it is wrong to let a fellow kiss you on a first date. If he tries, how do I stop him without getting into a fight? I don't want my first date to be my last. Thank you.

DEAR DUBIOUS: I don't think your questions are stupid. I think they are sensible. Here are my answers:

1. Be ready when the boy arrives. The girl who keeps her date waiting is inconsiderate.

2. Don't rush the boy out of the house or he may think you are ashamed of your parents.

MU Takes On Mexico AAU Olympic Squad

It looks like the end of the rain and very little sunshine in sight for Evansville's slumping basketball team.

The Aces, consistently among the top three in the Associated Press' small-college poll, tumbled to fifth in the latest rankings based on games through last Saturday.

Evansville, last season's small-college champ, did not collect one first-place vote in the balloting by a special panel of 13 regional experts. The Aces lost their fourth game last week, 83-73 to Valparaiso. They have won eight.

Southern Illinois continues to lead, followed by Grambling, Akron and North Dakota. The Salukis, 7-1 after beating Washington of Missouri, 95-81, polled eight votes for the No. 1 spot and 111 points on a basis of 10 points for a first-place vote, 9 for second etc.

Grambling advanced to second although it lost its first game of the season, 60-59 to Alcorn A&M. The Tigers have won 12, including a 101-82 triumph over Southern of Louisiana in their only other game last week.

The Top Ten, with season's records through games of last Saturday and total points:

1. Southern Ill. 7-1	111
2. Grambling 12-1	86
3. Akron 9-0	63
4. North Dakota 12-2	61
5. Evansville 8-4	55
6. Yonkers 9-1	50
7. Cent. St., Ohio 8-2	45
8. Northern Mich. 3-2	29
9. Valparaiso 10-3	27
10. Mt. St. Mary's 8-2	21

Devine Receives Professional Offer

WASHINGTON AP -- Dan Devine, football coach at the University of Missouri said he received an offer this season to be head coach of a professional team but turned it down.

Devine, attending the NCAAs meetings, did not identify the club.

"It was flattering, but I did not seriously consider it. I already have one of the best coaching jobs in football," he said.

"I have not been contacted by the St. Louis owners. But I'm sure the Bidwell brothers will come up with a good coach."

Devine, 40, is near the half-way point of a seven-year contract with Missouri. "I honestly can't tell you how long it has to run -- and has a 58-20-6 record in eight seasons."

Harris Hornets Tonight

Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) -- A Chicago Bear legal blitz is keeping Bear aide George Allen from becoming the new head coach of the Los Angeles Rams in a growing National Football League rumbus.

A Circuit Court hearing on the Bears' petition for a temporary injunction to keep Allen from fulfilling his Ram commitment was continued Wednesday until next Tuesday, Jan. 18.

The continuance came after Allen, 43-year-old Bear defensive coach, testified for 50 minutes on how he thought he was the new Ram coach as of last Monday, but Bear owner-coach George Halas thought he wasn't.

The 70-year-old Halas was represented in court by his son, Bear President George Halas Jr., and attorney Charles F. Short.

Allen, an eight-year Bear employee who also is director of player personnel for Halas, told Judge Cornelius J. Harrington he thought the breach-of-contract suit against him should be turned over to NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Rozelle has said he regarded the dispute a matter to be resolved between the Rams, Allen and Halas.

Wednesday's hearing brought a charge by Bear counsel that owner Dan Reeves of the Rams "is on trial in absentia for what he has done by waving the almighty dollar" to cause Allen to jump a Bear contract extending through 1967.

Allen's lawyer, Albert E. Jenner, told the court that Halas "welched after giving Allen permission to negotiate for the Rams job which he did not think Allen could get."

Allen testified that he assumed he had verbal permission from Halas to try for the Ram job, but never did get a formal go-ahead during his negotiations with Reeves between Dec. 28 and Jan. 4.

Allen told reporters after the hearing he considered himself Ram coach even though he has not yet signed a contract.

His Ram contract reportedly calls for $40,000 annually in a multi-year contract. He has received $19,000 yearly from the Bears.

Take On Eastern Illinois

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. -- The Southeast Missouri State College Basketball team has one more game on its schedule before it can take a week-long vacation from roundball activities for the semester examination break. The Indians will meet the Harris Teachers College Hornets Thursday night in at 8 p.m. game at Houch Fieldhouse here.

Coach Charles Parsley's charges, with a 7-4 overall record, are riding a two game victory streak that saw them win two Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association contests here over the weekend, placing them second in the conference with a 3-1 record.

The victories, 96-70 over Northeast Missouri State of Kirksville helped keep the Cape Staters in the running for the MIAA crown, but even those chances were dimmed by the 61-60 Springfield Bears' victory over Central Missouri State at Warrensburg Saturday night. The Indians now face a rugged schedule in the conference, and cannot afford to lose if they expect to keep in contention. The Indians' only conference loss came at the hands of the league-leading Bears, 72-65.

On the non-conference side of the schedule, Harris' squad will have a definite height advantage over the Indians Thursday night, with three starters listed at 6'3" and over, and all starters listed at least 6'0".

The height advantage could be offset, however, by the rebounding skill of Cape's 6-6 forward, Kermit Meystedt, a junior from Cape Girardeau who has been averaging 17.9 rebounds per game, ranking among the nation's leaders in that department. Meystedt also leads his squad in scoring, with a 24.7 average.

Other probable Indian starters are Ken Wilkerson, 6-0 forward, Bob Varel, 6-3 center,

Curtis Williams, 5-11 guard, and Charlie Bertrand, 5-10 guard.

The Hornets have averaged 91 points per game in rolling to a 1-3 record and snaring the second place trophy in the Concordia Tournament held recently in St. Louis.

Coach Rick Lessman's squad lost twice to last year's Indians, 93-83, and 122-76, and will feature a young team this year.

Probable starters for the Hornet will be Marvin Neals, the team's leading scorer, a 6-3 forward, Richard Davidson, a 6-6 sophomore, Bill Bushy, a 6-5 sophomore, David Hiel, a 6-1 sophomore, and Harry Riperdan, a 6-0 junior.

Evansville Tumbles To Fifth In AP Poll

It looks like the end of the rain and very little sunshine in sight for Evansville's slumping basketball team.

The Aces, consistently among the top three in the Associated Press' small-college poll, tumbled to fifth in the latest rankings based on games through last Saturday.

Evansville, last season's small-college champ, did not collect one first-place vote in the balloting by a special panel of 13 regional experts. The Aces lost their fourth game last week, 83-73 to Valparaiso. They have won eight.

Southern Illinois continues to lead, followed by Grambling, Arkan and North Dakota. The Salukis, 7-1 after beating Washington of Missouri, 95-81, polled eight votes for the No. 1 spot and 111 points on a basis of 10 points for first-place vote, 9 for second etc.

Grambling advanced to second although it lost its first game of the season, 60-59 to Alcorn A&M. The Tigers have won 12, including a 101-82 triumph over Southern of Louisiana in their only other game last week.

The Top Ten, with season's records through games of last Saturday and total points:

Devine Receives Professional Offer

WASHINGTON AP -- Dan Devine, football coach at the University of Missouri said he received an offer this season to be head coach of a professional team but turned it down.

Devine, attending the NCAA meetings, did not identify the club.

"It was flattering, but I did not seriously consider it. I already have one of the best coaching jobs in football," he said.

"I have not been contacted by the St. Louis owners. But I'm sure the Bidwell brothers will come up with a good coach."

Devine, 40, is near the halfway point of a seven-year contract with Missouri. "I honestly can't tell you how long it has to run -- and has a 58-20-6 record in eight seasons."

ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS

by LYNN TWITTY

Last week, according to Director of Library Services, Fred Huff, our Senior High School library had developed to the extent that it now contains over 10,000 volumes of books and library material available to the students and to the community. This makes it one of the superior high school libraries in the entire Midwest and is the attainment of a goal which Mr. Huff set when he took over library services for the school. It now fully meets the standards of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Not only are the books available, but they are being used and the same thing can be said of the Middle School library where Mrs. Polly Hanks is in charge. Principals and teachers in the elementary schools also report a steady growth in the acquisition of study materials and the use of them. In the school year of 1960-61 there were only 700 volumes available in the high school and the circulation for that year was 8,359. Both the number of volumes and the circulation have grown and the circulation for last year was 30,089 and already students have checked out over 14,000 volumes since this school year started.

We doubt that there is a better measure of the effort of a school system in trying to provide educational experiences than is the circulation of library and learning materials. We commend Mr. Huff and our faculty for this growth and effort and we expect it to continue at the same progressive rate. None of this, of course, would have been possible without the support of an educational minded Board and community.

Rollie Humphrey, who is working in the development of courses and registration for classes in the SEMO Trade-Technical Institute, tells us that courses for the 1966 spring semester, to begin January 13 at 6:30 p.m. will be offered in the following subjects: Bookkeeping, Dictation, Interior

Our school district may be in the category in the future and we would be handicapped in supporting our schools under the present law.

We hope that all citizens who believe in good education for their children will go the polls Friday, January 14, and vote YES for Constitutional Amendment 2.

This proposition is supported by the Missouri Association of School Boards, The Missouri Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the Missouri State Teachers' Association. It was placed on the ballot by our representatives in the Missouri General Assembly and none of them voted against it. Vote for Amendment 2 to improve Missouri schools. It does not mean an increase in taxes.

The most important immediate goal for better schools in Missouri is the passage of Constitutional Amendment 2 at the election Friday, January 14.

Very briefly, this amendment allows school boards to levy up to $1.25 per $100 of assessed valuation and allows school districts to vote an additional levy up to $2.50 per $100 assessed valuation by a majority vote. At present, school districts can levy $1.00 without voters approval and an additional levy up to $2 may be voted by majority vote. It does not, and we repeat does not, mean an increase in taxes. It only gives voters more freedom to determine the quality of their schools.

This does not particularly effect us at the present time, but there are at least 60 school districts in the state who are having difficulty in voting the levies needed to support their schools and the passage of Amendment 2 would give the voters a better opportunity to support good school programs.

preciation of music and its effect on living are to be learned. Music and the other fine arts are especially important in this era of increased leisure time.

Keith Collins, Director of Music Education for our schools, and his fine corps of capable assistants, plan and maintain a music instruction program that provides opportunities in this important field for about any level of interest from that of appreciation only, to skilled performance in vocal and instrumental music.

Our Food Service Department is frequently requested to serve meals to various organizations who hold meetings in this community. Our policy on this is that we only provide this service when the meals either cannot be served by our cafes and restaurants, or where the budget of the organization will not allow for the quality of service provided by the commercial establishment. In rare cases we only provide this as a public service and we are in no way, nor do we intend to be, in competition with private enterprises.

To the Editor:
During the years 1917 to 1923 this writer was cashier of a bank in a small town. Most of the deposit accounts and loans were farmers. Every farmer was his own boss and king on his plot of ground, whether he had a few or many acres.
If anyone had told us then that within a few years we would listen to a golden-voiced politician and allow bureaucrats and clerks in Washington to tell us what we can or cannot plant and manipulation of our farm prices by so-called brain trusters we never heard of, we would have considered that person crazy.

If anyone had told us that we would allow said super-salesman President in 1934, without amending our U. S. Constitution, to destroy our gold standard and repudiate the paragraph in our government bonds to pay for them at maturity in gold, we would have scorned the person saying it. Everyone had several five, ten or twenty gold pieces in the pantry--just in case.

If anyone had told us that our Executive, Legislative and Judicial checks against each other committing unconstitutional acts would be destroyed, we would have been horrified. Presidents packed our Supreme Court with men, most of whom never acted as a judge for one minute. They are beholden to Presidents for their jobs and instead of interpreting the U. S. Constitution they have been handing down decisions in accordance with their individual socialist beliefs and that of the Presidents who appointed them. They are unconstitutionally remaking our U. S. Constitution, which is the ONLY law of our land.
If anyone had told us that we would ourselves elect a majority of Congressmen who value their jobs and egos above the best interests of America and our star-spangled banner, who would rubber stamp all deficit spending requests of the Presidents regardless of possible national bankruptcy, who would vote for usurpation by the Federal Government of their own sovereign states' rights without amending our U. S. Constitution, we would have punched that party in the nose.

If anyone had told us that we would sit quietly by and allow the Federal Government to "erect a multitude of new offices, and send swarms of officers all over our land to harass our people and eat out their substance" (Declaration of Independence), that party would have been run out of town.

And yet, in just 30 years, we the people allowed and voted for all of this. Union workers voluntarily submitted to and voted for increasing controls of their freedoms by uncontrolled, national labor leaders.

So everything our forefathers fought and died for is about gone. The people traded their freedoms for dictator controls and the biggest debt bubble in all history. The age-old cycle of tyranny, revolution, freedom doms for a while, then the people trusting their all to a new crop of power-hungry, political planners -- then, bang, back to tyranny where we started.

ASPIRIN WARNING
What is small, pleasant-tasting, and harmless-looking, but dangerous if handled carelessly? Children's aspirin, Louisville physician, Dr. A. A. Shaper, points out -- especially when it comes in packages of 50.

Dr. Shaper explained in a letter to a medical publication that the usual bottle of 50 aspirins totals up to 62.5 grains, sufficient to kill a young child. He says that thousands of children require emergency hospital treatment for aspirin poisoning, and that 150 children under five years of age die every year as a result of gobbling quantities of the drug. The physician supports a bill (S.24041) introduced in the last session of Congress that would limit by law the quantity of aspirin permitted in a package.

But, as Dr. Shaper told Women's Medical News Service, "Education of parents comes first in reducing the number of poisonings. If parents are careless there will be trouble -- even though there are fewer tablets per bottle."

MEDICAL INDICATIONS FOR BIRTH CONTROL PILLS

Here are some reasons that oral contraceptive pills were prescribed for 92 German women, according to Dr. W. Kloss, of Berlin Free University: A certain number of women needed to avoid pregnancy for compelling health reasons. Among those were RH incompatibility, which might have led to defective babies, tuberculosis, which might have become worse as a result of pregnancy; nervous disease that had been treated free of the complication of pregnancy.

Another group of women were given "the pill" for therapeutic reasons: to eliminate the problems of painful and irregular menstruation. Results? Eleven of the twelve women with painful menstruation were completely relieved or improved, and 21 women with irregular periods became regular.

None of the women in either group became pregnant during the period of the trial with "the pills."

One unexpected bonus: Six women who had acne at the time they started taking "the pill," found that the condition cleared up while they were on it.

SMOKING HURTS UNBORN, ALSO FELLS ADULTS

If too much of a good thing can be bad for you, too much of a bad thing can be worse for you. At least that seems to be the moral of the following reports having to do with smoking.

There is wide agreement that cigarette smoking is bad for the health. But while people who smoke one pack of cigarettes a day are not confined to bed with illness more often than nonsmokers, people who smoke two packs or more a day are bedded down with illnesses of various kinds more frequently than the moderate or nonsmokers. That's what the National Center for Health Statistics reported recently.

Two army obstetrician-gynecologists and a civilian colleague report that in a study of 7,740 patients with uncomplicated pregnancies, the overall incidence of prematurity was significantly higher for those who smoked during pregnancy. The more smoking, the study showed, the greater the problem.

Pictures Record Viet Nam War Growth

SAIGON, South Viet Nam A.P.—The war in Viet Nam grew rapidly in 1965 and this growth was recorded in many memorable pictures on the side of the Vietnamese government and its allies.

Cameramen from many nations went into combat with U.S., Vietnamese, Korean, Australian and New Zealand troops to picture the victories and defeats, the horror and sorrow and the rare moments of humor and cheer.

But the world got only glimpses, usually colored in propaganda, of the war as seen through the eyes of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese. Communist photographers did, however, record their side. Most of the pictures were never released for worldwide viewing, but they were given wide distribution throughout Viet Nam. They presented a special view designed to show only a favorable record.

Capture of a series of these pictures gives the Western world a look at the enemy in Viet Nam as he sees himself. The pictures were seized by a unit of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division which stormed into a Viet Cong encampment about 30 miles northwest of Saigon.

Despite water stains and dirt, the pictures are of good quality. All carried caption lines, some extensive. Many had an identification stamp that said: "National Liberation Front information-Saigon, Cholon, Gia Dinh."

Gia Dinh is the province that surrounds the capital. Cholon is the Chinese quarter of Saigon. The stamp itself could hardly be challenged for the Viet Cong have demonstrated an ability to operate in and near the city. One shot, said to have been taken within Gia Dinh Province, showed Viet Cong riflemen removing parts from a wrecked vehicle the caption described as an amphibious tank. Actually the vehicle was an armored personnel carrier, a type knocked out frequently by Viet Cong now well armed with recoilless rifles.

There are rarely seen views of Viet Cong medical treatment of Communist soldiers wounded in action. One showed a wounded guerrilla with a bandage around his head and blood on his face and uniform.

A woman kneels beside him, giving him a drink of water from an American-type canteen cup, while another Viet Cong holds him up.

Other pictures show destroyed outposts and hamlets, pieces of crashed helicopters, Communist troops marching or lined up in formation.

Pictures have been captured in the past from the Viet Cong, some showing Viet Cong units drilling and training.

The pictures seized by the 101st Division paratroopers, however, give a wider view of the fighting as seen by the Communist side, a view that appears aimed in part at least at showing the nearness of Viet Cong strength to the nation's capital.

Many communities and corporations have an interest in the pictures.

Congress Can Aid Business

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The second session of the 89th Congress could mean even more in dollars and cents to American business than did the action packed first session.

The reason is that most of the issues in the session that opened this week are closely tied to financial and economic decisions.

Most of the social and legal questions were dealt with last

"Great Society" programs under way, beyond the central issue of what they will do for the general welfare. Congress may be asked to decide whether such programs, with their large outlays of cash for goods and services, are to be continued at the present rate, at a reduced one, or expanded as called for in the original time schedule.

Business also will be closely watching moves under way in this session of Congress to make more definite and restrictive the controls over pricing which the administration has been confining largely to persuasion or to threats of retaliatory moves by the government. The administration wants to hold basic prices down if possible as the economy heats up and nears the point where inflation could take off on a dangerous ride.

One big prop of the economy today is the boom in spending by business for new plant and equipment. Any tax changes could affect this. Some even wonder if Congress might rescind the 7 per cent depreciation allowance for tax purposes originally voted to encourage the buying of new equipment.

The government's stockpile of strategic materials, and how to get rid of some of the surpluses, will be up for debate. Business has a vital stake in this as it could affect prices and even trim production of some items.

And government's relations with labor through guidelines on holding down wage increases it considers inflationary also is likely to come before Congress along with the guidelines on price increases.

There's a 4 1/4 per cent ceiling on what it can pay on bond issues, although the going interest rate in the money markets is well above that today. The Treasury has to issue short-term notes and bills to which the ceiling doesn't apply. It is paying well above 4 1/4 per cent.

Many communities and corporations have an interest in the pictures.

White House Wit

CALVIN COOLIDGE
President, 1923-1929

On the day of Herbert Hoover's inauguration, Coolidge was told that it might rain, to which he replied, "Well, I hope not, but it always rains on my moving days."

When General Edward Logan called to pay his respects at the White House, the President greeted him cordially and then said, "Won't you come to lunch?"

"As a matter of fact," answered Logan, "I'm going to be here only today and tomorrow."

"We lunch on both days," replied Coolidge.

"Whenever I go indulge my sense of humor, it always gets me into trouble."

Shortly after Mr. Coolidge had gone to the White House,

Mrs. Coolidge was unable to go to church with him on Sunday. At lunch she asked what the sermon was about.

"Sin," he said.

"Well, what did he say about sin?"

"He was against it."

One of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge's favorite stories about her husband concerned the time when Coolidge was Vice President and a dinner companion of Coolidge's said to him, "You must talk to me, Mr. Coolidge. I made a bet today that I could get more than two words out of you."

"You lose," said the Vice President.

The human race is divided into two classes—those who go ahead and do something, and those who sit still and inquire, "Why wasn't it done the other way?"

—Oliver Wendell Holmes

The average person will believe anything you tell him if you whisper it.

—George B. Bowra

"I spent a fortune," said the impresario, "to give the public what they wanted out of the show."

"And what did they want?" "They wanted their money back!"

—K. H. R. Simkin

NO-BAKE RICE PUDDING

1/4 cup raisins
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup uncooked rice
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
3 cups diluted MILNOT
(1 1/2 cups MILNOT and
1 1/2 cups water)
2 tablespoons chopped
cinnamon and sugar
for topping

Soak raisins in lemon juice and rind while cooking rice, salt, sugar and MILNOT in top of double boiler. Cook until tender and liquid is absorbed (30-40 minutes). Add raisins, nuts and eggs to rice. Melt butter in 10 or 12-inch skillet; pour rice mixture in skillet and cook, allowing a brown crust to form. Turn, and brown remainder—using more butter if needed. Sprinkle with topping. Serve warm. 4-6 servings.

MILNOT goes better wherever you would use milk or cream as in coffee, mashed potatoes, cream soups or desserts. It makes modern mixes richer and creamier, and whips into creamy peaks. Rich in flavor, in vitamins and proteins, because it takes a whole quart of milk to make one can of MILNOT!

If cows could... they'd give MILNOT.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP--The war in Viet Nam grew rapidly in 1965 and this growth was recorded in many memorable pictures on the side of the Vietnamese government and its allies.

Cameramen from many nations went into combat with U.S., Vietnamese, Korean, Australian and New Zealand troops to picture the victories and defeats, the horror and sorrow and the rare moments of humor and cheer.

But the world got only glimpses, usually colored in propaganda, of the war as seen through the eyes of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese.

Communist photographers did, however, record their side. Most of the pictures were never released for worldwide viewing, but they were given wide distribution throughout Viet Nam. They presented a special view designed to show only a favorable record.

Capture of a series of these pictures gives the Western world a look at the enemy in Viet Nam as he sees himself. The pictures were seized by a unit of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division which stormed into a Viet Cong encampment about 30 miles northwest of Saigon.

Despite water stains and dirt, the pictures are of good quality. All carried caption lines, some extensive. Many had an identification stamp that said: "National Liberation Front information-Saigon, Cholon, Gia Dinh."

Gia Dinh is the province that surrounds the capital. Cholon is the Chinese quarter of Saigon. The stamp itself could hardly be challenged for the Viet Cong have demonstrated an ability to operate in and near the city.

One shot, said to have been taken within Gia Dinh Province, showed Viet Cong riflemen removing parts from a wrecked vehicle the caption described as an amphibious tank. Actually the vehicle was an armored personnel carrier, a type knocked out frequently by Viet Cong now well armed with recoilless rifles.

There are rarely seen views of Viet Cong medical treatment of Communist soldiers wounded in action. One showed a wounded guerrilla with a bandage around his head and blood on his face and uniform.

A woman kneels beside him, giving him a drink of water from an American-type canteen cup, while another Viet Cong holds him up.

Other pictures show destroyed outposts and hamlets, pieces of crashed helicopters, Communist troops marching or lined up in formation.

Pictures have been captured in the past from the Viet Cong, some showing Viet Cong units drilling and training.

The pictures seized by the 101st Division paratroopers, however, give a wider view of the fighting as seen by the Communist side, a view that appears aimed in part at least at showing the nearness of Viet Cong strength to the nation's capital.

Congress Can Aid Business

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The second session of the 89th Congress could mean even more in dollars and cents to American business than did the action-packed first session.

The reason is that most of the issues in the session that opened this week are closely tied to financial and economic decisions. Most of the social and legal questions were dealt with last year.

Current issues range from how much money will be appropriated for the Viet Nam war to what industries and companies will get the new defense orders and which ones will be cut back in payments by the U.S. Treasury. The type of war to be waged in Viet Nam will determine much of the spending — and what company and what community gets or loses orders.

The issues also include how the new money will be raised through increased tax collections or by selling a lot more Treasury securities. Basic to this is the monetary question of what rate of interest the Treasury will be allowed to pay when it borrows.

There's a 4 1/4 per cent ceiling on what it can pay on bond issues, although the going interest rate in the money markets is well above that today. The Treasury has to issue short-term notes and bills to which the ceiling doesn't apply. It is paying well above 4 1/4 per cent.

Many communities and corporations have an interest in the "Great Society" programs under way, beyond the central issue of what they will do for the general welfare. Congress may be asked to decide whether such programs, with their large outlays of cash for goods and services, are to be continued at the present rate, at a reduced one, or expanded as called for in the original time schedule.

Business also will be closely watching moves under way in this session of Congress to make more definite and restrictive the controls over pricing which the administration has been confining largely to persuasion or to threats of retaliatory moves by the government. The administration wants to hold basic prices down if possible as the economy heats up and nears the point where inflation could take off on a dangerous ride.

One big prop of the economy today is the boom in spending by business for new plant and equipment. Any tax changes could affect this. Some even wonder if Congress might rescind the 7 per cent depreciation allowance for tax purposes originally voted to encourage the buying of new equipment.

The government's stockpile of strategic materials, and how to get rid of some of the surpluses, will be up for debate. Business has a vital stake in this as it could affect prices and even trim production of some items.

And government's relations with labor through guidelines on holding down wage increases it considers inflationary also is likely to come before Congress along with the guidelines on price increases.

Yet, after all, though the problems are new, though the tasks set before us, differ from those tasks set before our fathers who founded and preserved this Republic, the spirit in which these tasks must be undertaken and these problems faced remains essentially unchanged.

White House Wit

CALVIN COOLIDGE
President, 1923-1929

On the day of Herbert Hoover's inauguration, Coolidge was told that it might rain, to which he replied, "Well, I hope not, but it always rains on my moving days."

When General Edward Logan called to pay his respects at the White House, the President greeted him cordially and then said, "Won't you come to lunch?"

"As a matter of fact," answered Logan, "I'm going to be here only today and tomorrow."

"You lose," said the Vice

Mrs. Coolidge was unable to go to church with him on Sunday. At lunch she asked what the sermon was about.

"Sin," he said.

"Well, what did he say about sin?"

"He was against it."

One of Mrs. Coolidge's favorite stories about her husband concerned the time when Coolidge was Vice President and a dinner companion of Coolidge's said to him, "You must talk to me, Mr. Coolidge. I made a bet today that I could get more than two words out of you."

"You lose," said the Vice

The average person will believe anything you tell him if you whisper it.

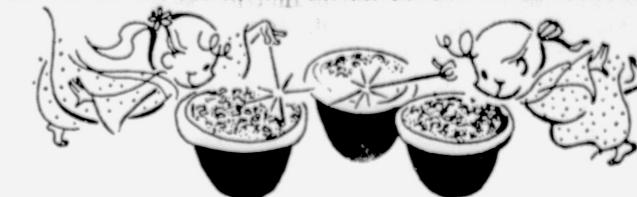

...George B. Bowra

"I spent a fortune," said the impresario, "to give the public what they wanted out of the show."

"They wanted their money back!"

"And what did they want?"

THE AMERICAN WAY To Jobs-Peace-Democracy

DRAFT PROGRAM OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY
Church League of America
422 N. Prospect St. Wheaton, Ill.

The Crisis in U.S. Foreign Policy -- The Danger of War
This nation's foreign policy since World War II can only lead to disaster. It is a policy without a future.

This policy has failed because it represents neither the national interests of the American people nor the cherished aspirations of all mankind for peace, national freedom and higher living standards.

The Wall Street trusts and cartels have set their course on completely dominating the nations, the markets and the resources of the entire globe. This they aim to do by a combination of bribery, cajolery, intimidation and ultimate war. This is the real cause for our Government's reactionary foreign policy.

This explains the building of air bases and military installations and our headlong rush to rearm Germany and Japan. It explains our intervention in Korea, and our military and financial aid to the oppressors and butchers of the peoples of Asia, Africa, and Latin America.

Our country, which won national freedom in a great revolutionary war against despotic colonialism, now strives to prevent other peoples from having their 1776. Our economic royalists shout "Communism," but what they are after is the tungsten of Korea, the rubber of Indo-China, the oil of Iran and Venezuela, the diamonds and gold of South Africa, the sugar of Cuba and Puerto Rico, the bauxite of Guinea, the tin of Bolivia, and the immense super-profits derived from cheap colonial labor everywhere.

No longer are the democratic forces of the world our allies and friends. Our new found "friends" are the Nazis of Germany, the militarists of Japan, the Franco fascist regime of Spain, the Chiang Kai-shek clique in Formosa, the white-supremacists of South Africa, and the military dictators of Latin America.

To call U.S. foreign policy one of "strengthening democracy and the free world" is to make a hollow and cynical mockery of words.

Powerful social forces are at work in the world that will not accept Wall Street dictation or domination. One third of mankind is emancipated from imperialist oppression and capitalist exploitation and has taken the path of socialism. The rise of the Soviet Union, its tremendous industrial and cultural advance, the victory of the Chinese people and the peoples of Eastern Europe, prove that liberties is becoming understood by more and more Americans.

McCarthyism is on a rampage. It is trying to brow-beat into submission every independent point of view, every thinking person. It burns books and destroys art and culture. It aims to smash the labor movement, to further enslave the Negro people, to stir up racism and anti-Semitism, to gag the young generation, and to wipe out all vestiges of liberty. How are you going to keep the kids at home? Buy a color television.

What has happened is that we watch television more.

Remember those cro-Magnon days of television when you were fascinated by anything, even test patterns? That's the way it is with color. We focus on color, any color. Even commercials.

The victims of the witch-hunt are many. They are in the first place Communists, but they also include men and women of varied political views. They are leaders of labor and the Negro people. They are the foreign born. They are men and women of science, gifted writers and artists, prominent churchmen and educators. (To be continued)

American economy — the teenagers — brought the issue to a Christmas climax. It is something of a fad to meet at the home of a color-set owner and watch "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." on Friday night or the Saturday night movie. How are you going to keep the kids at home? Buy a color television.

What has happened is that we watch television more.

Remember those cro-Magnon days of television when you were fascinated by anything, even test patterns? That's the way it is with color. We focus on color, any color. Even commercials.

Suddenly commercials are interesting. The ear is still repelled, but the eye is delighted by the varied hues. Especially good are the gleaming new cars speeding along the landscape and the menthol cigarette ads playing against emerald fields or turquoise bays. Color seems so suited to selling that it seems odd to view a commercial for the yellow pages in black and white.

You suddenly see why "Bonanza" is so popular. "Flipper" becomes a visual delight.

All this no doubt will pass. The eye will grow accustomed to the tints, and the brain will once more be deadened by the sameness of the shows.

We are not stating this as a fact, but we are told that half of the boys in town have turned down drinks since the holidays. The reason is not stated, but the inference is that they haven't sufficiently gotten over the Christmas celebration or have foresworn for good and all.

Twenty - eight new pupils entered the primary grades in the Sikeston school this week, which gives us more than 1,200 pupils in the high and grade schools.

From the San Bernardino, Calif., Sun, we learn that C. R. Hamilton, a former citizen of Sikeston, but of late years of Colton, Calif., has been promoted to an important position with the Pacific Express Fruit plant and transferred to Mampa, Idaho.

Today In

U. S. History

Today is Thursday, Jan. 13, the 13th day of 1966. There are 352 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1733, James Oglethorpe landed with about 130 colonists at Charles Town -- now Charleston -- South Carolina. An aristocrat by birth, he was granted a royal charter to much of what now is Georgia to open a home for debtors and persecuted religious groups for Britain.

On this date in 1834, Horatio Alger, whose stories of the rise of worthy boys inspired a whole generation of American youth, was born at Revere, Mass.

In 1848, Vancouver Island was acquired by the Hudson's Bay Company.

In 1864, composer Stephen Foster died in New York.

In 1955, the Saar territory voted to return to Germany.

In 1942, Donald Nelson became chairman of the War Production Board.

Ten years ago -- President Dwight Eisenhower appointed a board to review the work of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Five years ago -- A federal district court ordered the reinstatement of two Negro students in the University of Georgia; they had been suspended after becoming the first of their race to enroll.

One year ago -- Two U.S. jet fighters were shot down over Central Laos while on a combat mission against Communist supply lines.

NEW BADGE — Scouting long ago expanded its field of interest beyond the council fire and hiking trail. Now a new merit badge, 109th in the long series, taken Boy Scouts into the space age. Requirements for the new badge, worked out in part by astronauts once scouts themselves, include familiarity with space terms, objects and problems and construction of a nonoperating model launch vehicle. The first 13 badges went to boys from 12 cities in ceremonies at the Houston, Tex., Manned Spacecraft Center.
